Models, Theories, and Language

Faye, Jan (2005) Models, Theories, and Language.

Full text available as:
Microsoft Word - Requires a viewer, such as Microsoft Word Viewer

Abstract

The semantic view on theories has been much in vogue over four decades as the successor of the syntactic view. In the present paper, I take issue with this approach by arguing that theories and models must be separated and that a theory should be considered to be a linguistic systems consisting of a vocabulary and a set of rules for the use of that vocabulary.

Keywords:	Theories, Models, Realism
Subjects:	General Issues: Structure of Theories
ID Code:	3749
Deposited By:	Faye, Jan
Deposited On:	21 December 2007