

Maxwell / Faculty

Mark Rupert

Professor, Political Science

Chapple Family Professor of Citizenship and Democracy

Degree

Ph.D., Claremont Graduate School, 1987

Specialties

International relations, political economy, politics of globalization, right-wing populism politics of globalization

Courses

Max 123, Critical Issues for the United States (team-taught)

PSC 321, Populism & Conspiracy Culture

PSC 372, Marxist Theory & the Politics of Class Power

Publications

Mark Rupert and M. Scott Solomon (2006) Globalization and International Political Economy: The Politics of Alternative Futures (Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield).

Mark Rupert (2000) Ideologies of Globalization: Contending Visions of a New World Order (London: Routledge).

Mark Rupert (1995) Producing Hegemony: The Politics of Mass Production and American Global Power (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press).

Research Interests

Global Political Economy

Militarism & US Global Power

Neoliberalism and Business Hegemony

Hegemony & Right-wing Populism

Research Projects

I am currently working on a project that explores some of the most significant facets of right-wing populism in American politics and culture, from its role in the suppression of radicalism during the 20th century, to its deployment as an alibi for the lost war in Vietnam and as a cultural imperative to "Support the Troops" in America's contemporary military adventures, to the role of the gun lobby and gun rights culture in mediating between corporate neoliberalism and right-wing conspiracism in the present day. These thematically related papers will eventually form the core of another book.

These papers, and some others from earlier phases of my career, are available online at Academia.edu.

Contact Information
merupert@maxwell.syr.edu

410A Maxwell Hall
(315) 443-1748

Curriculum Vitae
Mark Rupert CV