

Yan Hui, a Confucian scholar, was walking in the forest when he heard a sound like a bell. He followed the sound and found a small stream flowing through a grove of trees. He sat down by the stream and began to play his zither. The sound of the zither harmonized with the sound of the waterfall, creating a peaceful and harmonious atmosphere. Yan Hui was deeply moved by this experience and realized that true happiness comes from within, rather than from external possessions or fame.

