Call for Participation The ETHICOMP name is synonymous with an international inclusive dialogue concerning the ethical and social issues associated with the development and application of Information and Communication Technology (ICT). Since 1995 there have been conferences, workshops and reports under the ETHICOMP umbrella. All have been organised by the Centre for Computing and Social Responsibility of De Montfort University in the UK in collaboration with other universities around the world.

The ETHICOMP Working Conference 2007 is a new venture designed to promote ICT ethics and social impact activity in academia within regions of the world where currently such activity is relatively limited. It is fitting that the first one will be held at Yunnan University in China. The ETHICOMP Working Conferences will include position papers, case studies, posters, tutorials, workshops and demonstrations. Themes There are two parallel themes for ETHICOMP Working Conference 2007 Issues current topics in computer and information ethics, and social impacts of ICT position papers, case studies and posters can be submitted Teaching inclusion of computer and information ethics and in formation ethics and social impacts of ICT in the higher education curriculum for computing, computer science and software engineering; methods, content and location tutorials, workshops and demonstrations can be submitted How to submit

All submissions must be in English and have neither been published nor submitted elsewhere. Position papers and case studies submissions will be accepted on the basis of a paper of 6-8 pages with a maximum of 4000 words. Posters submissions will be accepted on the basis of a 400 word description of the poster content and format. Tutorials, workshops and demonstrations submissions will be accepted on the basis of a 500 to 700 word description of the activity including the objectives, format of the session, duration of session, participants aimed at and outline description of session. The additional title page of each submission must include the title of the submission, type of submission, theme of submission, all of the authors' names, affiliations, complete mailing addresses including email, telephone numbers, and a statement of commitment that one of the authors will attend present the paper at ETHICOMP Working Conference 2007 in China. A submission lacking any of the above information or not conforming to the submission guidelines will not be considered by the Programme Committee for inclusion in the conference programme.

Please make submissions in the electronic form via email as embedded plain text or an attachment in RTF format. Submissions must be submitted no later than 26 January 2007 to ccsr@dmu.ac.uk. Authors will be informed of the decision of the Programme Committee by 23 February 2007.
