Article Dramatic Fertility Transition in Mongolia and its Determinants: the Demise of the Pronatalist State Demographers' Notebook

Author Altankhuyag Gereltuya

Abstract It is projected to decline continuously in Mongolia albeit at a slower rate, and TFR is expected to fall from 2.4 to 1.8 children per woman during the period 2000-2025. This decline will have a considerable impact on population growth, hence on the structure of the population.
