Work at home: data from the CPS

William G. Deming

Economist, Division of Labor Force Statistics, Bureau of Labor Statistics

---

According to the May 1991 CPS, 20 million nonfarm employees worked at home in 1991—more than 18.3 percent of those at work. However, only a small proportion of them were paid specifically for that work. This article presents the latest available data on workers who spend time working at home.
