Preparation for war and sports in the Kingdom of Castile (Spain) during the 15th century – a specific study of the city of Seville

Gonzalo Ramírez Macías

Abstract

The main purpose of this research is to know and characterize the sports that were practised with the purpose of preparing the participants for war, during the XVth Century in Castilian Spain and especially Seville (one of the most prosperous Castilian capitals at that time). The first part of this research is devoted to its justification and basis, whereas the second part puts forward the research methodology suggested, which has a new nature within the history of Sports. Thirdly, the results obtained in the research are presented and analysed. Finally, the research conclusions are expounded, which are based on its result and on other contributions from previous research projects.
