

Teaching to learn

welcome to my website.

My name is Jeremy Harmer. I am a teacher, a teacher trainer, and an author of books and articles for both teachers and students of English as a foreign or second language.

On this website you can find information about all my ELT books as well as dates of forthcoming talks and presentations around the world. There is a detailed bibliography, and a features page where you can meet people who I hope you find as interesting as I do.

You can see videos of my presentations, watch (and read) interviews I have given, or find other ESOL resources. There is also information about my novel and a page about my love of music as a listener and amateur player.

You can catch up with recent events and announcements in the news and comments section.

We would be very interested to have any suggestions and comments about what is on this website and what you think you would like to find here.

Portrait by Nina Hintringer

> Contact