Usage Evaluation of Library Digital Collections

Ma Jianxia ( Scientific Information Center for Resources and Environment Sciences, Lanzhou 730000 )

Abstract: Digital collections represent a significant and growing part of academic library's collection. Measuring usage of library digital collections is complex, however, and the lack of standard metrics makes it especially difficult to develop a framework for evaluation. This article analyzes and reviews the work and research having been carried out on the usage evaluation of library digital collection at home and abroad, discusses the ways to get the data of usage of library digital collection, the indexes of usage evaluation of library digital collection, finally the questions of usage evaluation of library digital collection are also presented.
